Cover to Cover

Presented by writingWA, meet West Australian Authors as they discuss their latest books with host Meri Fatin.

Premiering this month we meet Kimberley author Pat Lowe to discuss "Two Sisters": a remarkable true story of courage and survival. It is the story of two Walmajarri sisters who were born in the Great Sandy Desert and grew up as hunters and gatherers. They lived through a time of great upheaval when desert people were leaving their country and heading north to a new life on cattle stations.

Our encore presentation is Sam Carmody, author of "The Windy Season".

30 Mins

Destination WA

Handy Tip:

Difference between Westlink and Video Conferencing.

Westlink is a satellite TV system and require no internet or login.

All that is needed is an authorised satellite receiver, which we call a SatBox.

Video Conferencing (including Being There as used by the CRCs) is an internet based application.

It requires a computer, laptop, tablet or phone that is connected to the internet.

The quality and speed of your internet determines the quality of your video conference.

It is possible to just use the camera and mic on your device, but external cameras and mics deliver better results in most cases.

It is possible to take the HDMI output from a laptop and feed it into the same TV you view Westlink on.

Simply connect the HDMI out of the laptop to a spare HDMI input on the TV.

You may need to reduce the volume on the TV to stop feedback.

We suggest you place a label near TV designating which input is which on the TV.

Another idea is to print out instructions for each device, laminate and colour code and use the same colour code on the remote associated with the device.
